

We provide outsourced administrative support to associations and non-profit organizations. We do all work remotely from our client's facilities. Questions:

- 1) If one of our clients gets signed written permission from a member/customer to send a fax, can that fax be sent from our office (a different fax machine than what is in the association's office)?
- 2) Does this law only apply to "consumers"? What about someone whose fax machine is located at a business? Is business-to-business faxing still allowed?
- 3) How long does the consent last once it's provided?
- 4) Do "confirmations" apply under this ruling (ex: membership receipt, confirmation of a meeting registration)
- 5) What about payroll information that has "money" associated with it? Are we allowed to fax this?
